A Starter’s Guide for Academic Library Leaders
Advice in Conversation
AMANDA CLAY POWERS, MARTIN GARNAR, AND DUSTIN FIFE | print: 978-0-8389-1923-1

For this book, the authors sat down with many of the library leaders they most admire to talk about the most fascinating (and challenging) aspects of their jobs. These frank discussions will nourish you with nuts-and-bolts wisdom on such topics and situations as » balancing personal values against institutional strictures;
» creating a culture of change;
» the value of demystifying the budget for the entire library staff;
» using tools such as a personal “learning journal” to fuel professional development;
» developing a personal network by setting up meetings at local libraries during conferences;
» lessons learned from failed initiatives;
» examples of navigating controversies; and » managing facilities.

Strategic Planning for Academic Libraries
A Step-by-Step Guide
GREGORY C. THOMPSON, HARISH MARINGANTI, RICK ANDERSON, CATHERINE B. SOEHNER, AND ALBERTA COMER | print: 978-0-8389-1893-7

A strong strategic plan gives shape and clarity to the library’s intentions and can make a powerful case for the library’s indispensability to its sponsoring institution. This book » outlines a step-by-step method that helps readers prepare for a successful strategic planning process, create and implement a strategic plan, and assess the effectiveness of both the process and the resulting plan;
» offers expert advice for communicating a strategic plan clearly and compellingly to the library’s many stakeholders at every stage of the process;
» teaches how to use surveys and focus groups to inform strategic planning; and » concludes with a summary of the essential elements of a successful planning process, ideal for quick reference.
Library Leadership Your Way
JASON MARTIN | print: 978-0-8389-1905-7

Signposted with prompts for self-reflection, workshop discussions, and mentoring conversations, this guide’s topics cover core issues like

» discovering why you want to lead;
» research findings on the five most desirable traits in library leaders;
» wrestling with the constraints of organizational culture;
» how to develop habits that will bolster your confidence through inevitable moments of doubt;
» cultivating a “people first, mission always” mentality;
» self-care for leaders; and
» living out your unique leadership vision through goal setting, self-evaluation, and other key steps.

Inquiry and Research:
A Relational Approach in the Classroom

MICHELLE REALE | print: 978-0-8389-1784-8

Thoughtful, personal, and practical . . . An excellent resource for considering the roles of librarians in developing students’ critical thinking skills, sparking curiosity and constructing knowledge, and refreshing librarians’ teaching practices and collaborations with faculty.
—Library Journal (starred review)

In this book, Reale
» demonstrates why deep learning should begin with asking the right questions rather than finding the right answers;
» presents strategies for viewing curiosity as a process;
» shares methods and techniques that will kindle a spirit of inquiry, from discussion questions and reflective journals to one-on-one consultations and classroom workshops; and » discusses how collaboration and communication with faculty can help lead to instruction that focuses on the conceptual rather than tools.

Metaliterate Learning for the Post-Truth World

EDITED BY THOMAS P. MACKEY AND TRUDI E. JACOBSON; FOREWORD BY TROY A. SWANSON | print: 978-0-8389-1776-3

Information, Mapping and Power

New Methods for Exploring the Development and Teaching of Information Literacy Education and Mapping

ANDREW WHITWORTH | print: 978-1-78330-417-2

This is the first book to study how the political content of information literacy (IL) arises from the way it has become defined and is taught. It introduces new methods for research into the development of IL in learners and explores the implications of this research for the design of IL teaching. The book also draws on original research to provide a detailed account of how information practices emerge from communities of learners in different settings and how learners can be taught how to respond to and resist institutionalized power.
The Indispensable Academic Librarian
Teaching and Collaborating for Change

MICHELLE REALE | print: 978-0-8389-1638-4

By collaborating with faculty, librarians can forge a stronger connection with students, and by reflecting, they’ll be better able to assess successes and struggles. . . . VERDICT: This title will appeal to all academic librarians, especially those feeling limited by their environment. —Library Journal

At a time when academic library services are often viewed as an afterthought, Reale illuminates a path toward heightened relevance . . . Reale’s book also serves as a practical complement to the many traditional titles in this area. —ARBA

The No-nonsense Guide to Research Support and Scholarly Communication

CLAIRE SEWELL | print: 978-1-78330-393-9

Outlining the reasons why library staff need to develop a knowledge of research support and guiding them through the key information on each topic, Sewell covers

» international case studies by practitioners from around the globe;
» scholarly communication, open research, and the research lifecycle;
» research data management;
» open access; and » disseminating research.

The New Instruction Librarian
A Workbook for Trainers and Learners

CANDICE BENJES-SMALL AND REBECCA K. MILLER
print: 978-0-8389-1456-4

Offering support to all those involved, including library supervisors, colleagues, and trainees, this workbook

» shows how to set up new instruction librarians for success, with advice on completing an environmental scan, strategies for recruiting efficiently, and a training checklist;
» walks readers step by step through training a new hire or someone new to instruction, complete with hands-on activities and examples; and » demonstrates the importance of performance evaluation and management, including assessment and continuing education, both formal and informal.
Teaching Information Literacy Reframed 50+ Framework-Based Exercises for Creating Information-Literate Learners

JOANNA M. BURKHARDT | print: 978-0-8389-1397-0

The six threshold concepts outlined in the Framework for Information Literacy for Higher Education are an altogether new way of looking at information literacy. Offering more than 50 classroom-ready Framework-based exercises, Burkhardt's book

» scaffolds from the beginner level to the intermediate level;
» includes exercises that can be used in the one-shot time-frame as well as others designed for longer class sessions and semester-long courses; and » offers best practices in creating learning outcomes.

Theories and Practices of Information Literacy

CHARLES INSKIP | print 978-1-78330-135-5

There is a growing awareness of the impact of digitization on engagement with information. Beginning with a recent history of information literacy (IL) to give context, this book

» provides a detailed understanding of the theory and practice of information literacy and associated areas;
» identifies and discusses the challenges presented by the lifelong learning nature of IL in a digital world; and » enables the development of appropriate skillsets of library and information professionals as central players in the delivery of IL in education, workplace and society.

Archival Futures Series

SERIES EDITORS: BETHANY ANDERSON AND AMY COOPER CARY

The archives profession has long been seen as primarily concerned with the past. Archival Futures, a new book series published jointly by the Society of American Archivists (SAA) and ALA Neal-Schuman, points to the responsibility that archivists and allied information professionals have to shape the present and future. This series seeks to engage with the urgent questions embedded within archival work and processes, inviting discussion about the social responsibility of citizens to shape a historical record that better documents all aspects of the human experience.

A Matter of Facts
The Value of Evidence in an Information Age
ARCHIVAL FUTURES

LAURA A. MILLAR; FOREWORD BY LEE MCINTYRE
print: 978-0-8389-1771-8

Copublished with the Society of American Archivists (SAA) in this urgent manifesto, archives luminary Millar > explains the concept of evidence and discusses the ways in which records, archives, and data are essential sources of evidence for the future; > includes plentiful examples that illustrate the critical role evidence plays in upholding rights, enforcing responsibilities, tracing family or community stories, and capturing and sharing memories; and > examines the impact of digital technologies on how records and information are created and used.

Archives
Principles and Practices, Second Edition

LAURA A. MILLAR | print: 978-0-8389-1606-3

An engaging primer . . . This is a well-rounded book.
—Booklist

Written in clear language with lively examples, topics addressed in the book include the nature of archives and archival institutions; the role of archival service as a matter of trust; core archival concepts such as provenance, original order, and respect des fonds; appraisal, preservation, arrangement, description, and reference and access; and the changing role and responsibilities of the archival institution and archival practitioner in light of digital technologies.
Developing and Maintaining Practical Archives

Since its original publication this manual has been “not only a rich and ready reference tool but also a practical resource for solving problems” (Catholic Library World). Hunter’s revised and updated text, now featuring integration of digital records and audiovisual records into each chapter, covers such keystone topics as:

- a detailed review of archival responsibilities, including the latest literature on starting archives, undertaking surveys, selection and appraisal, acquisitions and accessioning, arrangement, description, preservation, security, and reference and access;
- expanded discussion of leadership and management, and professional development and ethics; and
- new sections on such topics as community archives, diversity and inclusion, and social media.

Ethics for Records and Information Management

Taking an authoritative principles/rules based approach, Mooradian comprehensively addresses:

- the structure of ethics, outlining principles, moral rules, judgments, and exceptions;
- ethical reasoning, from meaning and logic to dilemmas and decision methods;
- the ethical core of RIM, discussing key topics such as organizational context, the positive value of accountability, conflicts of interest, and confidentiality;
- ethical concerns like copyright and intellectual property, whistleblowing, information leaks, and privacy; and
- relating RIM ethics to information governance.
Digital Curation, Second Edition
GILLIAN OLIVER AND ROSS HARVEY
print: 978-0-8389-1385-7

Clearly written and heavily annotated, this volume is an authoritative exploration of a complex topic . . .
An essential text for anyone interested in digital curation.
—Library Journal

There is truly a wealth of information on every page . . .
The text provides precise and up-to-date workflows and terminology, as well as describing best practices in digital curation.
—Technical Services Quarterly

Records and Information Management Second Edition
PATRICIA C. FRANKS | print: 978-0-8389-1716-9

RDA Toolkit ONLINE SUBSCRIPTION

RDA: Resource Description and Access is an international standard for the creation of library and cultural heritage metadata for use in the ever-expanding digital environment. In 2017, the RDA Toolkit Restructure and Redesign (3R) Project began with the goal of improving the Toolkit user experience and adding greater flexibility and utility to the Toolkit’s display of instructions and RDA-related documents. A beta site was released in June 2018 allowing users to explore and test the new tools. In April 2019, a stabilization of the English text became available. This marks the beginning of a new phase of the 3R Project, which will last until the beta site becomes the official site. Documentation of additions/deletions/revisions of the RDA text will resume. The development focus now shifts from restructuring and revising RDA to the creation of translations, policy statements, etc.

Making Sense of Business Reference

CElia R oss  | print: 978-0-8389-1926-2

This updated guide from Ross, a past winner of the Gale Cengage Learning Award for Excellence in Business Librarianship, presents

» thumbnail descriptions of more than fifty databases for articles, company and industry, directories, consumer, international, or raw data;
» techniques for applying reference interview techniques to business questions;
» 33 real-life Stumper Questions drawn from librarians in the field; and » “Start Making Sense” suggestions for further skill-building.

Competency-Based Career Planning for Reference and User Services Professionals

Jo B ell Whitlatch and Beth S. Woodard
print: 978-0-8389-1780-0

Former RUSA (Reference and User Services Association) president Whitlatch and expert trainer Woodard

» introduce the RUSA Professional Competencies;
» demonstrate how to create a personal development plan;
» share information on a variety of development activities, including formal training opportunities and self-directed initiatives; and » provide recommended self-evaluation techniques such as exercises, short verbal and written reports, and sharing concrete examples of how skills were applied in the workplace.

The 4 Rs of Reference
Using the Psychology of Question-Asking for Reference Success

David A. Tyckoson  | print: 978-0-8389-1643-8

Reference pathbreaker Tyckoson, speaking to reference novices as well as to professionals looking to polish their approach,

» discusses the psychology of question asking;
» introduces the four Rs of reference—reassuring, responding, restating, and repeating;
» demonstrates how to apply the RUSA Behavioral Guidelines; and » addresses key issues such as in-person and online reference, the impact of environmental factors like desk size and location, the use of open- and closed-ended questioning, and how to deal with problem situations and users.
Conducting the Reference Interview
Third Edition
A HOW-TO-DO-IT MANUAL FOR LIBRARIANS
CATHERINE SHELDICK ROSS, KIRSTI NILSEN, AND MARIE L. RADFORD | print: 978-0-8389-1727-5

Packed with exercises and examples, this updated manual
» covers the ins and outs of the readers’ advisory interview;
» examines a wide range of contexts, such as children, young adults, parents, seniors, adults from diverse communities, and those with disabilities;
» presents case studies of innovative reference and user encounters;
» discusses topics such as respecting/protecting privacy, overcoming assumptions, and the importance of context; and » thoroughly addresses policy and training procedures.

Systematic Searching
Practical Ideas for Improving Results
EDITED BY PAUL LEVAY AND JENNY CRAVEN
print: 978-1-78330-373-1

Bringing together expert international practitioners and researchers, this book is divided into three parts:
» Part 1: Methods—covers theoretical models of information seeking and systematic searching practice, including search filters and controlled vocabularies;
» Part 2: Technology—covers new technologies for retrieving evidence such as social media and the Semantic Web; and » Part 3: People—considers the future of the information specialist as an expert searcher and explores how information professionals could develop their skills and find new roles.

A-Z Common Reference Questions for Academic Librarians
HEATHER DAWSON | print: 978-1-78330-411-0

A-Z Common Reference Questions for Academic Librarians is a survival guide for frontline library staff to help them find appropriate information quickly, whether they are answering questions at a physical help desk or remotely by telephone, email, or instant messaging service. It will help librarians tackle the questions most commonly asked by students, academics, and researchers. A broad cross-disciplinary A-Z of themes including topics such as literature searching, plagiarism, and using online resources are covered.
Fundamentals of Government Information

CASSANDRA J. HARTNETT, ANDREA L. SEVETSON, AND ERIC J. FORTE

The pooling of multiple authors’ talents makes this second edition more expansive and diverse than the previous one . . . this volume is a must read for any policy researcher and student of librarianship and one that professionals will want to use in teaching students and other library patrons about the fundamentals of government information.
