

HOPEFUL VISIONS, PRACTICAL ACTIONS

CULTURAL HUMILITY IN LIBRARY WORK

Edited by SARAH R. KOSTELECKY, LORI TOWNSEND, and DAVID A. HURLEY

ALA Editions
CHICAGO | 2023

available at alastore.ala.org

© 2023 by Sarah R. Kostelecky, Lori Townsend, and David A. Hurley

Extensive effort has gone into ensuring the reliability of the information in this book; however, the publisher makes no warranty, express or implied, with respect to the material contained herein.

ISBNs:

978-0-8389-3830-0 (paper)

978-0-8389-4980-1 (PDF)

978-0-8389-9149-7 (ePub)

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data

Names: Kostelecky, Sarah R., editor. | Townsend, Lori, editor. | Hurley, David A., editor.

Title: Hopeful visions, practical actions : cultural humility in library work / edited by Sarah R.

Kostelecky, Lori Townsend, David A. Hurley.

Description: Chicago : ALA Editions, 2023. | Includes bibliographical references and index. |

Summary: "This collection gathers contributors from across the field to demonstrate how cultural humility can change the way we work and make lasting impacts on equity, diversity, and inclusion in libraries" — Provided by publisher.

Identifiers: LCCN 2022035020 (print) | LCCN 2022035021 (ebook) | ISBN 9780838938300

(paperback) | ISBN 9780838949801 (pdf) | ISBN 9780838991497 (epub)

Subjects: LCSH: Libraries and society—United States. | Humility. | Cultural awareness—United States. | Cultural pluralism—United States. | Librarians—Professional ethics—United States.

Classification: LCC Z711.8 .H67 2023 (print) | LCC Z711.8 (ebook) | DDC 027.6/3—dc23/
eng/20220812

LC record available at <https://lcn.loc.gov/2022035020>

LC ebook record available at <https://lcn.loc.gov/2022035021>

Book design by Kim Hudgins in the Skolar Pro, Brix Slab, and Rustica typefaces.

Cover image © Nataly/Adobe Stock.

© This paper meets the requirements of ANSI/NISO Z39.48-1992 (Permanence of Paper).

Printed in the United States of America

27 26 25 24 23 5 4 3 2 1

available at alastore.ala.org

CONTENTS

Foreword by Mark A. Puente	ix
Acknowledgments	xiii
Introduction	xv

PART I: ORIGINS

- 1 "Time Is a Ship That Never Casts Anchor" 3
Indigenous Adages in Promoting Cultural Humility LORIE NE ROY AND LEISA MOORHOUSE
- 2 Redressing Power Imbalances in Librarianship
Using Cultural Humility 17
A Perspective from Two Black Librarians
XAN GOODMAN AND TWANNA HODGE
- 3 Getting Past "Approachability" 35
What Cultural Humility Brings to Library and Information Education
LILIANA MONTOYA AND SARAH POLKINGHORNE

PART II: REFLECTIVE PRACTICE

- 4 Reflections on Culturally Humble Practice in Bibliography, Scholarship, and Readers' Advisory 49
A Case Study
MICHAEL MUNGIN

CONTENTS

- 5 Cultural Humility and Evaluating Books for Young Readers 63
SILVIA LIN HANICK AND KELSEY KEYES
- 6 Learn, Act, Connect 81
Thriving as an International Librarian and Global Citizen MEGGAN HOULIHAN, DINA MEKY, AND AMANDA CLICK
- 7 Cultural Humility in Instruction on Health Outreach Projects 95
Revising a Course on the Grant-Writing Process
JARROD IRWIN

PART III: COMMUNITY

- 8 Embedding Diné Culture in Individual and Institutional
Cultural Humility Practices 109
A View from the Tribal College Library RHIANNON SORRELL
- 9 Beyond Late Fees 125
Eliminating Access Barriers for Everyone
CARRIE VALDES
- 10 Small Changes Make an Impact 137
How Access and Metadata Services Teams Address Cultural Humility
MELANIE BOPP, TRICIA MACKENZIE, AND KIMBERLEY A. EDWARDS
- 11 Cultural Humility and Servant Leadership 153
MARK EMMONS

CONTENTS

PART IV: HOPEFUL VISIONS

12	Knowing (un)Knowings	175
	Cultural Humility, the Other(s), and Theories of Change NICHOLAE CLINE AND JORGE R. LÓPEZ-MCKNIGHT
13	Cultural Humility	189
	A Journey to Radical Self-Love NAGHEM SWADE AND DANİYOM “DANI” BEKELE
	About the Editors	205
	About the Contributors	207
	Index	213

FOREWORD

IN THE LAST NINETEEN MONTHS, WE HAVE SEEN A PROLIFERATION OF articles, op-eds, special editions of journals, podcasts, webinars, and numerous other types of publications and programs on the topics of racism, systemic racism, and antiracism. To some communities (emphasis intentional), the discourse on diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) has never been so visible or so poignant, especially after the murder of George Floyd in May 2020. To many communities—especially communities of color, and in particular those who identify as Black—the inequities that became more visible from that tragic event are simply a reality of everyday existence. The worldwide racial awakening that followed, perhaps compounded by the global pandemic, launched statements in support of Black lives (and others) from corporations, higher education, not-for-profits, and many other sectors. In the library and archives profession, reading lists on the topic were developed and disseminated at perhaps record pace. Discussion groups were formed. DEI and antiracist trainers and facilitators have been unable to keep up with demand. Philanthropic organizations with immense resources, such as the Ford, MacArthur, Kellogg, and Andrew Mellon foundations, have committed unprecedented amounts of money to racial equity efforts. And a highly contentious presidential election brought the concepts of systemic racism and critical race theory into the living rooms and vocabulary of most US citizens even though there were and there remain, in the opinion of this author, broad misconceptions about what either of those terms mean.

Nevertheless, the quest for understanding and “answers” seems to be the focus of much activity. Individuals and organizations appear to be committed to uncovering the solutions for this seemingly intractable problem that, according to many social scientists, historians, and thought leaders, has existed for centuries. What training can one attend that will provide a convincing argument of the severity of the problem? In what institute can one enroll that will provide the tools for action that might lead to systemic change? What assessment methodologies can be deployed that will provide us with the data we need to advance equity in organizations and in society? Society needs answers and solutions. And these need to be accessible, expedient, tenable, and sustainable.

But is that realistic? Is it just that the magic formula or the most convincing analysis has eluded us to date? To those paying attention, even prior to 2020, the tenor of conversations around diversity, equity, and inclusion were changing dramatically. To that litany of terms, organizations and institutions added belonging and engagement in addition to antiracism. The framing of “multiculturalism” seemed, to many, out of fashion and insufficient at addressing the root causes of inequities based on racial/ethnic identity or other marginalized identities. Did this trajectory, prior to 2020, hold any promise? Or was the tendency to provide framing of our common humanity and the universalism of the human experience too safe an approach? To what extent do we derail efforts by introducing the most challenging of phrases such as white privilege or white supremacy? What exactly is the approach, what are the exact terms, and which is the exact methodology that will lead to enduring change?

I posit that it is the quest for perfection—for quick and easy solutions—that stalls us in our efforts. Perhaps there is room, if not necessity, for every approach, depending on context and urgency. It is clear that decades of efforts have fallen short. It is evident from data about differential outcomes for communities of color when they (we) engage with any social system that the US is not in a postracial reality. It is equally clear that socioeconomic status alone does not account for those differential outcomes in healthcare, education, access to housing, the accumulation of generational wealth, the criminal justice system, or demographic representation in the library profession, among other measures. It is also clear that no single approach to these issues will resonate with—much less convert—those who doubt if not outright deny the realities of systemic inequities and injustice.

The concept of cultural humility is not new to libraries and information science. Many attribute the development of the framing to the medical profession and concerns about the shortcomings of “multiculturalism” as it relates to patient/healthcare providers and physicians (Tervalon and Murray-García 1998). The concept has been adapted by many other professional sectors, including librarianship, which has seen numerous presentations and articles surface in the literature within the last five years. Among those, perhaps the most impactful has been the Reference Services Review article by the editors of this compilation, “Cultural Humility in Libraries” (Hurley, Kostelecky, and Townsend 2019). In their review of the literature and of the concept, they emphasize several key dimensions or hallmarks of cultural humility that are especially cogent in contemporary times. The first is that cultural humility is an ongoing process that involves self-reflection, not a finite set of skills that can be mastered by any individual (Hurley, Kostelecky, and Townsend 2019, 13). The second is that cultural humility, in any interaction, demands deference to the characteristics that are most salient to the object (person) of the transaction—that is, the person who embodies the difference and whose experience and life we are trying to improve (Hurley, Kostelecky, and Townsend 2019). In this way, there are no assumptions that even people from similar cultural backgrounds hold the same values and prefer to be treated or represented in a similar way. Moreover, there are no presumptions that the values and behavioral characteristics (or preferences) of people from majority cultures and identities (e.g., white, straight, cisgender, able-bodied) align with those from different cultural identities or expressions. Finally, and most important, the concept of cultural humility demands that we address the power differentials, either real or perceived, that exist between the parties involved in any transaction. In this way, whether at micro-, macro-, or mezzo-levels, we can begin to redress the long trajectory of disadvantage experienced by communities of color and people from other marginalized and underrepresented identities. Perhaps this framing can lead to systemic change in our profession.

The chapters within this collection are diverse, representing authors from varied personal backgrounds as well as professional contexts—from library administrators in higher-education environments, to library and information science educators, to public and community college librarians. Readers will no doubt be challenged to think about the implications of cultural humility on our professional practice, certainly, but also on the way we live our lives, day to day. We are challenged, through the lens of cultural humility, to embrace paradox—that is, to embrace “both/and” thinking, rejecting the traditional, Western either/or approaches (Gulati-Partee and Potapchuk 2014). In addition, we are encouraged to become comfortable with nonclosure, which is a “direct challenge to the cultural norm of perfectionism that dominates” the work of libraries, archives, and other cultural-heritage and -memory institutions (Gulati-Partee and Potapchuk 2014, 33). Engaging these counter-cultural norms will allow us to reify the core principles of cultural humility, which, in turn, may lead to more meaningful experiences and more equitable outcomes for all those for whom access has been denied for generations.

Mark A. Puente

Associate Dean for Organizational Development, Inclusion, and Diversity

Associate Professor, Purdue University Libraries and School of Information Studies

REFERENCES

- Hurley, D. A., S. R. Kostelecky, and L. Townsend. 2019. "Cultural Humility in Libraries." Reference Services Review 47, no. 4: 544–55. <https://doi.org/10.1108/RSR-06-2019-0042>.
- Gulati-Partee, G., and M. Potapchuk. 2014. "Paying Attention to White Culture and Privilege: A Missing Link to Advancing Racial Equity." Foundation Review 6, no. 1. <https://doi.org/10.9707/1944-5660.1189>.
- Tervalon, M., and J. Murray-García. 1998. "Cultural Humility Versus Cultural Competence: A Critical Distinction in Defining Physician Training Outcomes in Multicultural Education." Journal of Health Care for the Poor and Underserved 9, no. 2: 117–25. <https://doi.org/10.1353/hpu.2010.0233>.

INTRODUCTION

AS WE ARE WRITING THIS INTRODUCTION, IT HAS BEEN ALMOST EXACTLY A year since we put out a call for the chapters in this volume. We are also two years into a pandemic that has changed every facet of our lives. The year in which these chapters were written was a year filled with despair, hope, despair again, and then a more cautious hope intertwined with frustration, anxiety, and, yes, bouts of despair even still. Perhaps this is an apt metaphor for what we hoped to achieve in bringing together these authors in a book on cultural humility: a cautious hope in the face of so much trouble, but one too grounded in experience to be a naive hope.

You may already be aware of the concept of cultural humility emerging as another approach to equity, diversity, and inclusion efforts within librarianship. Though there are a number of definitions of cultural humility, we have defined it for library contexts as “the ability to maintain an interpersonal stance that is other oriented in relation to aspects of cultural identity that are most important to the other person, the ability to recognize the context in which interactions occur, and a commitment to redress power imbalances and other structural issues to benefit all parties” (Hurley, Kostelecky, and Townsend 2019).

Cultural humility’s core tenets include an awareness of and commitment to challenging inequitable structures of power. A culturally humble approach to work recognizes the need for partnership and gives individuals concrete tools for undertaking and continuing such work with patience and hope. In this way, cultural humility offers an approach for navigating our work, whether the interpersonal interactions with patrons and/or between staff members, or the behind-the-scenes work of collection development, cataloging, or administration.

Much of practicing cultural humility involves self-reflection and so happens within the mind. This can make it difficult to recognize specific actions as resulting from cultural humility. Instead, we (Hurley, Kostelecky, and Townsend 2022) have identified some key mental practices of cultural humility, including:

- Don't be defensive.
- Recognize other perspectives.
- Practice critical self-reflection.

The contributions in this volume tell stories that illustrate these elements. Our hope is to share the many ways people engage with this approach in libraries with colleagues and patrons, leading to meaningful change and growth—making things a little bit (or a lot) better.

Within the following chapters are visions of cultural humility and the changes, big and small, that it facilitates. The authors represent a diverse set of life, work, and library experiences, which reinforces the relevance and applicability of a cultural humility practice across individuals and environments. Though we have grouped the contributions into distinct sections, they do not exactly fit their labels—a statement that applies to many of the authors as well. Many of the stories shared here start from a place of not fitting in. This is enough of a theme that we think this experience may be an asset in practicing cultural humility. We think it is a strength of this volume too, that the chapters bring different approaches, styles, and purposes, creating a whole that is richer than it is tidy.

Many of the authors in this volume have bravely and generously shared their personal stories and experiences, illustrating the many ways people practice cultural humility. Writing in such an open and honest way can be difficult, and we are grateful for the trust they have placed in us, as editors, and you, as readers, to share and receive their stories.

Origins

The first section of this book focuses on origins, roots, and beginnings. We don't mean the origin of cultural humility itself—that is documented elsewhere (e.g., Foronda et al. 2016; Hurley, Kostelecky, and Townsend 2019; Tangney 2000; Tervalon and Murray-García 1998). Rather, in this section, we hear from authors about their origins with cultural humility, starting with its deep roots in Indigenous cultures, then exploring individual journeys to understand and implement the concept, and finally, considering cultural humility at the beginning of a journey into librarianship.

In some ways, this is also the origin of this book project itself. Like many of our colleagues, we were introduced to cultural humility from outside the field of librarianship. Seeing its potential, we immediately looked for examples of cultural humility being used in libraries. While we were sure they existed, we couldn't find any back in 2014. And so we began work on our vision of what we thought cultural humility practice might look like for libraries.

Over the next several years, as we began to write about and present on cultural humility, we started hearing it mentioned in other presentations, saw it referenced on our social media timelines and in books, and, eventually, encountered other visions of cultural humility in webinars, presentations, and writings from people like Twanna Hodge, Xan Goodman, Nicola Andrews, Sunny Kim, and Josie Watanabe. We learned later that Omar Poler had been discussing it in courses in the Tribal Libraries, Archives, and Museums Project at the iSchool at University of Wisconsin–Madison. Clearly, many people in many libraries were thinking about, engaging with, and doing cultural humility in a variety of ways. This book stems from a desire to discover and learn from those colleagues throughout the library world.

As we started looking for and talking about cultural humility, we noticed two things. First, many people who were engaged with the concept had very personal stories of how they relate to or value cultural humility. Second, many of the people we talked to who hadn't heard the term cultural humility had a response along the lines of “Oh, there's a name for that?” For us, this second group often (though certainly not exclusively) consisted of Indigenous people. Though this is certainly partly explained by our social networks—two of us are Native, and all of us have worked in libraries in Native institutions—we repeatedly noted the interesting work on cultural humility being done in Native communities, such as by the First Nations Health Authority in Canada.

We are therefore delighted to have Lorie Roy and Leisa Moorhouse's chapter, “‘Time Is a Ship That Never Casts Anchor’: Indigenous Adages in Promoting Cultural Humility,” to open the collection. Lorie and Leisa share a variety of Indigenous adages that can help individuals in their own cultural humility practice. They highlight the importance of adages and how these can give an individual a tool for reflection and guidance to go forward in the world. The lessons imparted in Indigenous adages reflect the tenets of cultural humility and can be useful reminders for engaging with others using the approach. Adages can be referred to when needed in difficult times throughout life, supporting the lifelong learning that is part of a cultural humility practice. This chapter will help readers think about cultural humility in new ways and open a space to think about the values conveyed in familiar adages from their own cultures.

We are equally delighted that Xan Goodman and Twanna Hodge, two pioneers of cultural humility in libraries, collaborated on “Redressing Power Imbalances in Librarianship Using Cultural Humility: A Perspective from Two Black Librarians.” Using critical race theory and autoethnography, they share their own counterstories of their individual experiences as Black women working in libraries. Their stories illustrate how race, ethnicity, culture, positionality, kinship ties, and socioeconomic aspects can create and reinforce power imbalances, anti-Blackness, and oppression within the profession. Cultural humility, they argue, can change personal, organizational, and systemic practices that create and perpetuate these problems. They also share practical ways to engage in self-reflection and strategies for addressing power imbalances. This chapter can help readers recognize, articulate, and reflect on the many subtle and unsubtle assumptions, norms, and values that contribute to the problems in the profession.

Liliana Montoya and Sarah Polkinghorne, together as student and instructor, reflect on the benefits of introducing cultural humility to library school students. In “Getting Past ‘Approachability’: What Cultural Humility Brings to Library and Information Education,” they explore the concept of service as taught in library and information science classrooms, typically through the lens of “approachability.” They problematize and deconstruct approachability, highlighting that power dynamics are always at play when a person assesses whether or not a librarian seems approachable. Cultural humility, which they point out is “user-centeredness in action,” makes these issues salient to students who are considering how to be information providers. This chapter will be useful to both new and experienced librarians who want to incorporate cultural humility into their ethos of librarianship.

Reflective Practice

As we grow from our origins, we seek diverse examples of cultural humility in practice. In the following chapters, individual librarians make change—in their own practice and in the world—through both transformative shifts and bold remakings, as well as smaller but still meaningful remodelings. As we hear their stories, we see how their practice moves all of us toward positive change. Their generous sharing of both professional and personal growth, beginning with self-awareness and continuing with reflective practice, clarifies how we realize cultural humility in everyday library work.

In “Reflections on Culturally Humble Practice in Bibliography, Scholarship, and Readers’ Advisory: A Case Study,” Michael Mungin contributes a warm and engaging reflection on cultural humility in his work, from teaching information literacy at the University of Washington to creating a queer and trans people of color (QTPOC) film bibliography. He shares his background and his experiences with libraries growing up, and how these have informed his current positionality. Michael discusses the QTPOC Film Canon resource using a cultural humility lens, and the story of its development serves as a reminder of the potential positive impact we as individuals can have through our work in libraries. This chapter will appeal to anyone interested in the practice of cultural humility in public services, and it’s a great place to start thinking about what a culturally humble practice looks like and how to think about cultural humility as an individual library worker.

Silvia Lin Hanick and Kelsey Keyes, both academic librarians who were members of the American Library Association’s committee Rise: A Feminist Book Project for Ages 0–18, provide practical guidance on incorporating cultural humility into the practice of selecting children’s literature in their chapter “Cultural Humility and Evaluating Books for Young Readers.” They use vivid examples and relatable personal narratives to reflect on the emotions they experience as professionals, mothers, and readers when selecting children’s literature. They show us how cultural humility can be applied not only to our interpersonal interactions but also in the relationships we form with books. In so doing, they expand the boundaries of our (the editors’) understanding of cultural humility and have developed an insightful set of principles for applying cultural humility to an important part of librarianship. This chapter provides an example of cultural humility in practice and will be particularly valuable for librarians interested in children’s literature.

Meggan Houlihan, Amanda Click, and Dina Meky explore cultural humility in the context of international librarianship in “Learn, Act, Connect: Thriving as an International Librarian and Global Citizen,” as American academic librarians who have lived and worked outside the United States. They frame these experiences through the lens of Tangney’s dimensions of humility and Goodman’s pillars of cultural humility. Using lively and pertinent examples from their own and other international librarians’ experiences, they express the appreciative joy of cultural humility as they discuss exploring, learning, making mistakes, and experiencing wonder in new and unfamiliar environments. This chapter will be helpful to anyone thinking of working abroad, but also in reflecting on how we approach the world as “outsiders” and how we might use those approaches in thinking of how we work with our patrons and colleagues.

In “Cultural Humility in Instruction on Health Outreach Projects: Revisiting a Course on the Grant-Writing Process,” Jarrod Irwin describes how he incorporated principles of cultural humility into an online course about grant writing for health outreach and education projects. He highlights the importance of libraries working in partnership with local community members and organizations and how a culturally humble approach must be taken with these partners. He details the changes made to the course in adding cultural humility elements and explains the reasoning for each change. This chapter offers guidance for those readers looking for concrete ways to use cultural humility in their own contexts, even if those contexts don’t initially appear directly related to diversity, equity, and inclusion efforts.

Community

The contributions in this section illustrate the impact of community in shaping one’s practice of cultural humility, within the library and more broadly. Libraries can cultivate an environment that helps individuals in their cultural humility practice. As we engage with the individuals from the communities around us, we can listen to their needs and experiences to advocate for changes to power structures within libraries. The authors in this section describe the process of examining embedded library practices and policies through the lens of cultural humility and, as a result, implementing changes that center the other person and their needs. They help remind us to reflect on seemingly small aspects of an interaction with someone (saying “have a good day” to a patron) to the larger ones (taking patrons to court for lost books) and how those reflections may help us in our interactions going forward.

In “Embedding Diné Culture in Individual and Institutional Cultural Humility Practices: A View from the Tribal College Library,” Rhiannon Sorrell shares her reflections about cultural humility practice as a librarian at Diné College, where she engages with members of her own tribal community. She discusses how humility is embedded within Diné cultural teachings, although there is no specific word for the concept in the Diné language. Rhiannon thoughtfully shares how she realized she had to “unlearn” norms from Western education to help library users at Diné College. Writing about her experience of self-reflection makes the process visible, which can help others in this effort. This chapter provides an example of the value of cultural humility practice in an Indigenous context (where the librarian and patrons are of the same cultural background), and how it can be practiced by and for Indigenous people and communities.

The next two chapters present case studies of making changes in libraries. In “Beyond Late Fees: Eliminating Access Barriers for Everyone,” Carrie Valdes, director of the public library in Moab, Utah, shares how a light-bulb moment several years into her tenure as director led her to begin a complete reevaluation of her library’s policies, procedures, and services, engaging her staff, the library board, and the local government along the way. Realizing that library policies were creating barriers for the people who most needed its services, she changed how cards are issued, how lost books are handled, even the forms needed to check out equipment, with more changes planned. But beyond the specific changes, Valdes presents a model for how to think about library services and the policies that support, or prevent, the community from using them. Anyone who has ever felt that some things just can’t be changed will find inspiration in this chapter.

From the public library in a town of 5,300, we move to a university library serving a population of 38,000. In “Small Changes Make an Impact: How Access and Metadata Services Teams Address Cultural Humility,” Melanie Bopp, Tricia Mackenzie, and Kimberley A. Edwards share their experiences working to embody cultural humility as a core value of their departments in the library at George Mason University and the additional challenges that come from operating within a consortium. In Access Services, they were able to be flexible with policies and rethink interactions with patrons as a way to mitigate the hierarchical nature of patron/employee relationships. In Metadata Services, they not only changed the labels for metadata, such as replacing .N for “Negroes” with .B for “Black people” in their Cutter numbers, but also rethought what metadata should be recorded at all for nontraditional collections. The care for both the patrons they directly serve and the creators whose works appear in their collections stand out. This chapter will be especially useful to people working in big systems, where even small changes matter.

In his chapter “Cultural Humility and Servant Leadership,” Mark Emmons, associate dean at the University of New Mexico University Libraries, considers the connections between the theory of servant leadership and that of cultural humility through an analysis of the scholarly literature. He also reflects on his own experience growing up as a “third culture kid” and how that has impacted his views on leadership and service. Mark provides a starting place for conversations about cultural humility in leadership, suggesting leaders can benefit their organizations by employing a servant leadership and cultural humility approach to their work, and that these approaches are complementary.

Hopeful Visions

The closing section is formed by contributions that express a vision for cultural humility, whether engaging critically with it and future imaginings of it, or embracing it and making it manifest in the world through generous practice.

In their thoughtful piece “Knowing (un)Knowings: Cultural Humility, the Other(s), and Theories of Change,” nicholae cline and Jorge R. López-McKnight share reflections about the potential of humility broadly and engage in critique of the cultural humility concept as an act of love. The promise of humility as a core value is explored, with the authors considering the potential impact if we truly engage in a humble way. Critique is raised through questioning: Can cultural humility truly be a way to make change while it is “haunted” by cultural competence, the model from which it came? Will cultural humility become institutionalized as a concept but do little to change the composition of the library and information science field or its structures? They also share their cautiously hopeful perspective on the use of cultural humility while recognizing the concept may be misappropriated. The vision for a future of cultural humility centers practice, reflection, and engagement with others in order to strengthen the approach while gathering stories and experiences highlighting its usefulness.

We close the book with “Cultural Humility: A Journey to Radical Self-Love” by Nagem Swade and Daniyom “Dani” Bekele. Part of a team tasked with creating a cultural humility workshop at the Denver Public Library, the two authors share a journey of discovery through critical self-reflection—honestly and insightfully exploring how they have unconsciously replicated their own experiences in their interactions with others, and occasionally adopted assumptions about people even though those assumptions would have been incorrectly applied to themselves. Naghem and Dani present their work as a way to help others in their own understanding of cultural humility through sharing their respective paths to engage in the practice themselves.

As we edited this volume, we found the collection as a whole inspired us with the many ways that cultural humility practice manifests across libraries and librarianship, by people bringing a range of experiences and backgrounds. The diversity of this collection reinforces for us the belief in the benefits of a cultural humility approach within the diversity of our libraries, our patrons, and our staff. The contributions in this volume also give hope that each of us may find ways to change and improve our libraries, our services, and our profession through the practice of cultural humility.

REFERENCES

- Foronda, C., D.-L. Baptiste, M. M. Reinholdt, and K. Ousman. 2016. "Cultural Humility: A Concept Analysis." Journal of Transcultural Nursing 27, no. 3: 210–17.
- Hurley, D. A., S. R. Kostecky, and L. Townsend. 2019. "Cultural Humility in Libraries." Reference Services Review 47, no. 4: 544–55. <https://doi.org/10.1108/RSR-06-2019-0042>.
- Hurley, D. A., S. R. Kostecky, and L. Townsend. 2022. Cultural Humility. Chicago: ALA Editions.
- Tangney, J. P. 2000. "Humility: Theoretical Perspectives, Empirical Findings and Directions for Future Research." Journal of Social and Clinical Psychology 19, no. 1: 70–82.
- Tervalon, M., and J. Murray-García. 1998. "Cultural Humility Versus Cultural Competence: A Critical Distinction in Defining Physician Training Outcomes in Multicultural Education." Journal of Health Care for the Poor and Underserved 9, no. 2: 117–25. <https://doi.org/10.1353/hpu.2010.0233>.

INDEX

A

- AAPI (Asian American and Pacific Islander) community, 69, 162–163
- access barriers
 See library access barriers
- Access Services and Metadata Services, GMU
 background of, 137–138
 conclusion about, 148
 further cultural humility work, 146–148 library staff, cultural humility changes, 144–146 library users, cultural humility changes, 138–143
 questions for reflection/discussion, 149–150
 resources for, 150
 summary of, 148
- accountability, 30, 57–58
- accuracy of children’s literature, 63–65, 77 guiding questions for, 65
- ACRL (Association of College and Research Libraries), 150, 181
- “ACRL Access Services Interest Group: Dude, Where’s My Yes?” (ACRL), 150
- adages, Indigenous across time, 5–6
 description of, 4–5
 function of, 3–4 for guidance on humility, 9–13
 as instruments of instruction, 6–8
- introduction to, xvii–xviii
 for learning about cultural humility, 8–9
- Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, 191–192
- Addis Ababa University, 192
- Adler, M., 150
- agile project management, 100
- Ahiñ na’anish value, 117, 120
- ALA
 See American Library Association
- Alderson, B., 76
- All About Clive series (Spanyol), 67
- All About Rosa series (Spanyol), 67
- Alsop, P., 7
- American Library Association (ALA) book awards for children’s literature, 70–73 on fines, 146
 Kimberley Bugg’s project at Annual Conference, 54
 Spectrum Scholars, theory of change, 181
- American Panda* (Chao), 69
- American University in Cairo (AUC) librarians working at, 81 list of contacts for newcomers, 83 power imbalances, removal of, 87–88
- Anderson, V., 159
- Andrews, Nicola, xvii
- Annamma, Subini, 180
- Ansari, A., 203
- antiracism
 American universities and, 137
 in conversation about DEI, x

- antiracism (cont'd) cultural competency and, 178
 cultural humility and, 183
- approachability
 consideration about, 36–38 cultural humility and, xviii, 35 definition of, 36
- Apt, N. A., 4
- Argandona, A., 158–159, 161
- arrogance, 10
- Arrow to the Sun* (McDermott), 72
- Asbill, L., 8
- Asian American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) community, 69, 162–163
- assimilation, 199–201
- Association of College and Research Libraries (ACRL), 150, 181
- Association of Research Libraries, 181
- assumptions, 42–43
- AUC
See American University in Cairo
- authenticity, 156
- authority, 159–160
- autoethnography, 17–18
- Avoseh, M. B. M. on adages, weight of, 9 on adages for cultural humility, 8 on Māori adages, 5
- B
- The Banjo Lesson* (Tanner), 64
- Bannister, Edward Mitchell, 64
- Bauer-Wu, S., 203
- Beautiful Shades of Brown: The Art of Laura Wheeler Waring* (Churnin), 64
- Bekele, Daniyom “Dani”
 on cultural humility, 189–203
 experience of US cultural norms, 197–198
 information about, 207
 overview of chapter by, xxii–xxiii personal culture story of, 191–193 on shedding status quo, 199–201
- Bell, A., 65
- belonging children’s books and, 69
 in conversation about DEI, x proving, 198
- “Beyond Late Fees: Eliminating Access Barriers for Everyone” (Valdes), xxi, 125–136
- biases checking, 138
 cultural humility and, 40
 decentering yourself as reader, 68
 implicit bias, 203
 Naghem Swade’s experience of, 201
- bibliography/scholarship/RA, culturally humble practice in background/self-reflection on cultural humility, 49–54
 conclusion about, 58–59
 questions for reflection/discussion, 59–60
 resources for, 60
 summary of, 59
 Towards a QTPOC Film Canon, 54–58
- BIPOC community
 children’s literature awards and, 71–73
 power imbalances in libraries, 26–30 racial/social injustices facing, 189–190 servant leadership of, 162–163 in workplace, 24
- Black people
 Black women working in libraries, 22–26
 cultural humility and, xviii, 18
 LCC Cutter change, 141
 power imbalances in libraries, 26–30 social determinants of health, 97
 whiteness/fitting in, 25
- Blessingway Teachings, 115–116, 117
- Bocarnea, M., 157
- Bonheur, Rosa, 64–65
- book awards ALA book awards for children’s literature, 70–73
 cultural humility approach for selection of children’s books, 75–76
- Bopp, Melanie
 cultural humility/DEI work of, 138
 on GMU’s Access Services and Metadata Services, 137–150
 information about, 207

- overview of chapter by, xxi-xxii
- Bopp, R. E., 37
- Brewer, C., 158
- Bronson, Angela
 “Mirrors and Windows: Diversity in Children’s Picture Books,” 79 on representation, 70–71 on The Snowy Day (Keats), 76
- Bugg, Kimberley, 54
- Bureau of Indian Affairs, 112
- C
- Caldecott, Randolph, 71–72
- Caldwell, C., 159
- Carlos, Wendy, 65
- Carnegie-Whitney Grant for Fade 2 Black Popular Culture Index, 54 for QTPOC Film Canon, 55, 57
- cataloging alternative controlled vocabularies, 147–148
 by GMU’s Metadata Services, 143 privacy of creators, 140–142
- Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), 66
- challenges of GMU Libraries’ changes for staff, 145–146 of GMU Libraries’ changes for users, 142–143
- A Chance in the World: An Orphan Boy, A Mysterious Past, and How He Found a Place Called Home* (Pemberton), 128
- Chanel, Coco, 65
- change, theory of, 181–184
- Chao, Gloria, 69
- Chávez, Vivian, 55, 60
- Chen, X., 158
- children access barriers to library, 129 library late fees and, 126, 128 student card for library, 130–131 children’s literature, cultural humility approach to evaluating accuracy/completeness, 63–65
 conclusion about, 77
- decentering yourself as reader, 66–70
- introduction to, xix
- power imbalances, recognizing/mitigating, 70–77
- questions for reflection/discussion, 78–79
- resources for, 79
- summary of, 78
- Churnin, N., 64
- Civitello, A., 23
- class, 162–163
- classic books inertia and, 74–75
 power imbalances and, 70
 questioning, 76
- classification system, 133
- Click, Amanda commitment to learning, 84–85
 information about, 207–208
 on international librarianship, 81–94
 overview of chapter by, xix–xx
 work after return to US, 92
 work history of, 81–82
- Cline, Nicholae
 information about, 208
 “Knowing (un)Knowings: Cultural Humility, the Other(s), and Theories of Change,” 175–187
 overview of chapter by, xxii
 “Clinical Conversations Training Program” (NNLM), 105
- collaboration cultural humility in grant-writing process course, 97–98 cultural humility instruction for, 103–104 grant-writing and, 99
- collaborators cultural humility with servant leadership, 163–165 humility/performance, 158–159
 power/authority of servant leadership, 159–160
 questions for reflection/discussion, 167–168 relationship with leader, 166 servant leadership done well, 158

- collaborators (cont'd)
 use of term, 155
 See also partners
- Collins, J., 158, 159
- Collins, P. H., 23
- coloniality, 183
- communities of color
 cultural humility and, x-xii DEI, discourse on, ix-x
 See also BIPOC community
- community
 Diné culture in individual/institutional cultural humility practices, 109-122
- GMU's Access Services and Metadata
 Services, cultural humility lens, 137-150
- in host country, finding, 91
- impact on cultural humility, xx-xxii
- library access barriers, eliminating, 125-136
- newcomer to tribal community, 110-111
- Community Policing Defined* (US Department of Justice), 150
- completeness, 63, 64-65
- connect, commitment to by international librarian, 91
- international librarianship, respect for, 88
- new/unfamiliar, appreciating, 85-86
- as pillar of cultural humility, 82
- preparing to live in unfamiliar culture, 83
- context of interactions, recognition of, 159
- positionality statement for, 57
- Cooke, N. A., 94
- Cottrell, A. B., 154
- COVID-19 pandemic
 Grand County Public Library and, 131, 132
- virtual coffee meetings during, 145
- Crenshaw, K. W., 17
- Cristodero, D., 137
- critical cultural humility, 24
- critical race theory (CRT)
 for autoethnography, 17-18
- Xan Goodman/Twana Hodge on, xviii
- critique, 176-177
- Cullinan, C. C., 24
- cultural competence
 cultural humility and, 41, 110, 177-178
- haunting of cultural humility, 185
- Mark Emmons on, 154-155
- reliance on, 179-180
- cultural humility
 adages for learning about, 8-9
- approachability and, 36-38
- autoethnography as tool for self-reflection, 17
- benefits of, 35, 42-44
- change, theory of, 181-182
- community, xx-xxii
- concept of, x-xi
- core tenets of, xv-xvi
- countercultural norms, engaging, xi-xii
- critique, process of, 176-177
- critique of, 178-181
- cultural competency haunting, 177-178
- definition of, xv
- at Denver Public Library, 189-203
- dialectics of humility, 184-185
- Diné culture, embedding in, 109-122
- engaging in, 19-20
- GMU's Access Services and Metadata
 Services, 137-150
- in grant-writing process course, 95-106
- hopeful visions, xxii-xxiii
- humility in Diné interpersonal values, 115-116
- Indigenous adages, guidance on humility from, 9-13
- in Information Resource Discovery course, 38-42
- key dimensions of, xi
- love as necessary for, 177
- meaning to librarianship practice, 18-19
- nurturing, 161-165
- origins, xvi-xviii
- personal culture, questions about, 195-196
- points/questions to aid you, 202-203
- power imbalances in libraries and, 26-31

- QTPOC Film Canon's connections to, 55–58
- reflective practice, xviii–xx
- relevance to grant-writing course, 96–98
- roots in Diné culture/teachings, 114–115
- servant leadership and, 155–161, 165–166
- as shared dream, 175
- as theory of change, 181–182
- three pillars of cultural humility, 82
- what must be done, 182–184
- “Cultural Humility: A Journey to Radical Self-Love” (Swade & Bekele), xxii–xxiii, 189–203
- “Cultural Humility and Evaluating Books for Young Readers” (Hanick & Keyes), xix, 63–79
- “Cultural Humility and Servant Leadership” (Emmons), xxii, 153–168
- cultural humility approach to evaluating children's literature
- accuracy/completeness, 63–65
 - conclusion about, 77
 - decentering yourself as reader, 66–70
 - power imbalances, recognizing/mitigating, 70–77
 - questions for reflection/discussion, 78–79
 - resources for, 79
 - summary of, 78
- “Cultural Humility: Essential Foundation for Clinical Researchers” (Yeager & Beauer-Wu), 203
- “Cultural Humility in Instruction on Health Outreach Projects: Revising a Course on the Grant-Writing Process” (Irwin), xx, 95–106
- “Cultural Humility in Libraries” (Hurley, Kostelecky, and Townsend), xi
- Cultural Humility: People, Principles and Practices* (documentary film), 60
- cultural humility/servant leadership
- conclusion about, 165–166
 - Mark Emmons on being a TCK, 153–155
 - nurturing cultural humility, 161–165
 - questions for reflection/discussion, 167–168
 - resources for, 168
 - servant leadership, 155–161
 - summary of, 166
- cultural identity
- Daniyom “Dani” Bekele's experience of cultural norms, 197–198
 - Naghem Swade's experience of cultural norms, 198–199
 - servant leadership and, 160–161
- Cultural Inclusivity Services Department, Denver Public Library
- cultural humility training, 190, 202–203
 - cultural norms in US, 196–199
 - moving from self-competency to self-humility, 191–195
 - status quo, shedding, 199–202
- cultural norms
- personal culture and, 196–199
 - status quo, shedding, 199–202
- culturally humble practice in bibliography/scholarship/RA
- background/self-reflection on cultural humility, 49–54
 - conclusion about, 58–59
 - questions for reflection/discussion, 59–60
 - resources for, 60
 - summary of, 59
 - Towards a QTPOC Film Canon, 54–58
- culture
- adages that communicate values, 4
 - challenges of GMU Libraries' changes for users, 142–143
 - cultural humility and, xi
 - Diné culture, embedding in cultural humility practices, 109–122
 - library cultures, geography's impact on, 21–22
 - Navajo cultural protocols, 113
 - personal culture, 191–195
 - status quo, shedding, 199–202
 - of students, lack of, 18
 - third-culture kid and, 153–155
 - unfamiliar culture, preparing to live in, 83

D

- Damasco, I. T.
 on critical cultural humility, 18
 on employment of Black women, 23
 on workplace/cultural humility, 24
- Daniel, J., 54
- Database Integrity and Analysis department, GMU, 138
- deadnaming
 GMU Libraries policy on, 141 treatment of trans identities, 65
- decentering yourself as reader, 66–70, 77
- defensiveness, xvi
- degrees, 27–28
- DEI See diversity, equity, and inclusion
- Dennis, R. S., 157
- Denver Public Library (DPL)
 cultural humility training at, xxii–xxiii, 190, 202–203
 cultural norms in US, 196–199
 moving from self-competency to self-humility, 191–195
 status quo, shedding, 199–202
- Department of Māori Affairs, 7
- description, 140
- Detroit, Michigan, 21–22
- Devine, P. G., 52
- Dewes, T. K., 11
- Dewey, Melvil, 133
- Dewey Decimal System, 133
- DiAngelo, R., 23, 27
- Diné College
 becoming unselved, 110–111
 college values/policies, 116–118
 Diné patrons at Diné College Libraries, 112–114
 Diné values for cultural humility practices in library, 118–120 diversity at, 109–110
 final thoughts about, 121
 humility in Diné interpersonal values, 115–116 humility's roots in Diné culture/
 teachings, 114–115
 questions for reflection/discussion, 122
 summary of, 121–122
 values/policies of, 116–118
- Diné College Libraries Diné values, applying for cultural humility practices, 118–120 diversity/experience at, 109–110 patrons at, 112–114
- Diné culture
 becoming unselved, 110–111
 college values/policies, 116–118
 Diné patrons at Diné College Libraries, 112–114
 Diné values for cultural humility
 practices in library, 118–120
 final thoughts about, 121
 humility in Diné interpersonal values, 115–116 humility's roots in Diné culture/
 teachings, 114–115
 introduction to, xx–xxi
 questions for reflection/discussion, 122
 summary of, 121–122
- direction, 156
- DisCrit (disability critical race theory), 180
- diversity in children's literature, evaluation of, 66–67
 in Diné culture, 109–110, 120 of GMU Libraries' library staff, 147 TCKs embrace, 153–154
- diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) cultural humility and, xv, 183, 185
 for racial change, 182 for redressing power imbalances, 30 training for systemic change, ix–x worldwide racial awakening and, ix
- Diversity Alliance, ACRL, 181
- “Diversity Standards on Cultural Competency for Academic Libraries” (ACRL), 181
- Diyin Dine'é (the Holy People), 114
- dominant culture, 17–18
- Dorfman, P. W., 160
- Dowd, Ryan, 136
- Downie, R. D., 153
- Dunbar, A. W., 17–18, 23
- Duncanson, Robert S., 64
- Dyment, J. E., 20

E

Ebert, Roger, 52

education

See library and information education

Edwards, Kimberley A.

on GMU's Access Services and Metadata Services, cultural humility lens, 137-150

information about, 208

overview of chapter by, xxi-xxii

egotism, 10-11

Egypt

bawaabs in, 91

international librarians in, 81

language for connecting with community, 85-86

new/unfamiliar, appreciating, 84-85

power imbalances, removal of, 87-88

preparing to live in unfamiliar culture, 83

shopping in, 84

"Eliminating Library Fines: Improving Community Access, Equity and Usage" (WebJunction), 150

embedded library practices, xx-xxii

"Embedding Diné Culture in Individual and Institutional Cultural Humility Practices: A View from the Tribal College Library" (Sorrell), xx-xxi, 109-122

Emmons, Mark

"Cultural Humility and Servant Leadership," 153-168

information about, 208

overview of chapter by, xxii

empathy

films as empathy machines, 52

humility's close connection to, 56

employees, 156-157

See also library staff

"Empowering Values of the Diné Individual" (Office of Diné Culture), 115-116 empowerment

cultural humility with servant leadership, 163-165

Diné interpersonal values for, 115 empowering/developing people, 156 of library staff, 144, 147

engagement, x

Eni, R. A., 4, 9

Espinal, I., 26

Ethical Questions in Name Authority Control (Sandberg), 141, 150

Ethiopia, 191-192

Eva, N.

on learning to be humble leaders, 161

on servant leadership, 158

servant leadership definitions of humility, 157

evaluation of children's literature, cultural humility approach to, 63-79

grant-writing course content on project evaluation, 100-101 of partnerships, 104

expertise, 43-44

experts, 99

expressed humility, 158

Eyes That Kiss in the Corners (Ho), 70

F

fact-checking, 65, 78

factual accuracy, 63-65

factual inaccuracies, 64

Fade 2 Black Popular Culture Index, 54

false narratives, 51

fee schedule, 132

feedback, 101

fees, 146-147

See also late fees

feminists, 64-65

Fenwick Library, GMU, 138

Ferreira da Silva, Denise, 177

Fields, D. L., 160

Fienup-Riordan, A.

adages for guidance on humility, 9, 10

on Indigenous adages, 3

on tradition of storing words, 13 on Yup'ik view of instructions, 7

filmography, 54-58

films

Michael Mungin's librarian origin story, 52-54

- films (cont'd)
 QTPOC Film Canon, 54–58
 fines, 146–147
 first impressions, 37
 First Nations Health Authority, Canada, xvii
 Fitzgerald, J., 68
 “The 5 Rs of Cultural Humility: A Conceptual Model for Health Care Leaders” (Robinson, Masters, & Ansari), 203
 Floyd, George, ix
 Focht, A., 157
 “Folk Wisdom and Orally Transmitted Knowledge—Everyday Poetry in Adages, Rhyme, and Riddles” (Gaski), 14 followers as collaborators, 166 importance of, 159
 rejection of notion of, 163
 use of term, 155
 Foronda, C., 8, 13
 Fox, Mem, 66–67
 France, 85, 86
 “Free Is Key: Library Fines and Access” (Wacek), 136
The Funny Little Women (Lent), 72–73
- G
 Gaski, H. adage on humility, 9, 10
 on Indigenous adages, 3–4
 “Folk Wisdom and Orally Transmitted Knowledge—Everyday Poetry in Adages, Rhyme, and Riddles,” 14 on Sámi proverbs, 8, 13 gender children’s literature and, 64, 65, 67, 75 Diné values, 118
 host country connections and, 91 in metadata descriptions, 140
 servant leadership and, 162–163
 generosity, 10
 geography, 21–22
 George Mason University (GMU)
 background of, 137–138
 cultural humility at, xxi–xxii cultural humility changes for library users, 138–143
 cultural humility changes, library staff, 144–146
 further cultural humility work, 146–148
 LC/NACO Name Authority Record Policy for Personal Names, 141 “Getting Past ‘Approachability’: What Cultural Humility Brings to Library
 and Information Education” (Montoya & Polkinghorne), xviii, 35–46
 Gilbert, Elizabeth, 128–129 Global Baby Boys (Global Fund for Children), 67 GLOBE (global leadership and organizational behavior effectiveness) cultural attributes, 160 goals, 100
 Gonzalez-Smith, I., 58
 “good vs. bad” mentality, 194 Goodman, Xan
 autoethnography of, 17
 cultural humility writings, xvii earning tenure, 28
 engaging in cultural humility, 19
 on geography’s impact on library cultures, 21–22
 information about, 208
 overview of chapter by, xviii pillars of cultural humility, xx on power imbalances in libraries, 26–27 “Redressing Power Imbalances in Librarianship Using Cultural Humility: A Perspective from Two Black Librarians,” 17–32
 three pillars of cultural humility, 82
 work history of, 22–24
 graduate information services course, 38–42, 44
 Grand County Public Library changes made at library, 129–130, 132–133
 Dewey Decimal System, challenging, 133 filing charges against patrons with overdue items, 126–127

- identifying, 133–134
 inspiration for change, 128–129
 overdue library materials, stories about, 125–126
 proof of residency for adults, 131
 questions for reflection/discussion, 135–136
 replacement costs, elimination of, 131–132
 resources for, 136
 summary about, 134
 unattended-children policy, 130–131
- Grants and Proposal Writing On Demand course changes to course material, 98–103
 conclusion about, 103–104
 cultural humility in, 95–96
 introduction to, xx
 questions for reflection/discussion, 105 relevance of cultural humility to, 96–98
 resources for, 106
 summary of, 104–105
- greed, 10
- Greenleaf, Robert on effect of servant leadership, 161 goal of, 164
 on power/authority, 160
 on servant leadership, 155
- group actions, 30
- Grove, N., 6, 7
- Guidelines for Behavioral Performance of Reference and Information Service Providers* (RUSA), 36–37, 41
- guiding questions for accuracy, 65 for decentering yourself as reader, 70 for power imbalances, 77
- Gulati-Partee, G., xi–xii
- H
- Hale, J. R., 160
- Hampton University Museum, 64
- handshake, 113
- Hanick, Silvia Lin
 on cultural humility when evaluating books for young readers, 63–79 on decentering herself as reader, 68–69
- information about, 209
 on nostalgia, 73–74 overview of chapter by, xix
- Harney, Stefano, 175, 186
- Harper, D., 183
- Harper, L. M., 150
- Harris, A., 54–55
- Harry Potter series (Rowling), 73–74
- Hathcock, A. M., 26
- haunting, 177–178
- “He kete whakataukī: Using Narratives and Values in Māori Proverbs” (Moorhouse), 15
- health disparities, 96–97, 104
- health outreach projects, 95–106
- Healthy People 2030, 97
- help desk, 112–114
- help of others, 10
- Hemara, W., 6
- hijab, 193, 194
- Ho, Joanna, 70
- Hodge, Twanna
 autoethnography of, 17
 cultural humility writings, xvii
 engaging in cultural humility, 19–20
 on geography’s impact on library cultures, 22
 information about, 208
 “Integrating Cultural Humility into Librarianship” YouTube video, 60 “Integrating Cultural Humility into Public Services Librarianship,” 46
 overview of chapter by, xviii
 on power imbalances in libraries, 27–28 “Redressing Power Imbalances in Librarianship Using Cultural Humility: A Perspective from Two Black Librarians,” 17–32 reflective practices of, 20–21 workplace history/experiences of, 24–26
- Holvoet, K. G., 94
- Homeless Training (homelesslibrary.com), 136
- homophobia
 films and, 52
 Michael Mungin’s experience of, 50–51

- homophobia (cont'd) representation and, 52
- Hook, J. N., 43
- hopeful visions
 cultural humility as journey to self-love, 189–202 cultural humility/theories of change, 175–187 overview of, xxii–xxiii
- host country finding community in, 91 learning about, 86–87, 93
- Houlihan, Meggan
 commitment to learning, 84
 information about, 209
 on international librarianship, 81–94 language barrier experience, 90
 overview of chapter by, xix–xx
 pecha kucha talk, 89–90
 trust with students, 87 understanding of historical events, 86–87
 work after return to US, 91–92
 work history of, 81
- How Mamas Love Their Babies* (Fitzgerald), 68
- Hózhóǵjík'ehgo (Blessingway Teachings), 115–116, 117
- Hudson, D. J. on cultural competence, 179–180
 on power imbalances in libraries, 26
- humility
 as attribute/practice, 182–183 connection to institutions, 179 dialectics of, 184–185 in Diné interpersonal values, 115–116 for DisCrit Resistance, 180 humble practices, 19 Indigenous adages for guidance on, 9–13 mistakes, acknowledging, 88–90 performance and, 158–159
 roots in Diné culture/teachings, 114–115
 as servant leadership characteristic, 156, 157–158, 165–166
 Tangney's dimensions of, 82
See also cultural humility
- Hurley, D. A. concerns about cultural humility, 117, 177
 on context, 54
 on cultural humility, xi, 41
 cultural humility approach of, 165–166
 cultural humility definition, xv, 155
 on cultural humility practices, xvi
 on false narratives, 51
 information about, 206
 on leaders, 164–165
 on positionality, 49, 50
 on power imbalances, 112, 160–161, 179
 on power/authority, 159
- I
- Ichihō, R., 159
- ideas, 86–88, 93
- identity
 decentering yourself as reader, 66–70
 personal culture, 191–195
 of third-culture kid, 153–154
See also cultural identity; personal culture
- IILF (International Indigenous Librarians' Forum), 12–13
- İ́ éé́hózin value, 117, 120
- İ́ ídlí value, 117, 119
- “Illegal Aliens” term, 142, 143
- illustrations children's literature awards, 72 representation in children's books, 70–71
- immigrants
 assimilation into US society, 196
 experience of US cultural norms, 197–198
 library services for, 199–201
- implementation grant-writing course content on, 99–100
 of servant leadership, 156–157
- implicit association tests, 30
- implicit bias, 203
- “In Praise of Followers” (Kelley), 159
- “in-between space,” 180
- inclusion, 101–103

- Indigenous adages
 across time, 5–6
 description of, 4–5
 guidance on humility from, 9–13
 as instruments of instruction, 6–8
 for learning about cultural humility, 8–9
 questions for reflection/discussion, 14 resources on, 14–15
 summary of, 13
 teaching/advice from, 3–4
- Indigenous people acknowledgement of, 189
 adages of, xvii–xviii alternative subject headings for, 141–142 cultural humility work by, xvii Diné culture, embedding in cultural humility practices, xx–xxi, 109–122 Indigenous adages in promoting cultural humility, 3–15 working with, 120
- individual, 166
- individual actions, 30
- individuation, 52
- inertia
 evaluation of children’s books and, 74–75
 power imbalances and, 71
 reliance on, 70, 76–77
- information desk, 144
- Information Resource Discovery course (University of Ottawa’s School of Information Studies)
 conclusion about, 44
 cultural humility in, 38–39
 Liliana’s student experience, 39–40
 Sarah’s instructor experience, 40–42
- information services
 cultural humility approach, benefits of, 42–44
 cultural humility in Information
 Resource Discovery course, 38–42
 cultural humility, learning about, 35
- Information Services to Diverse Populations:
 Developing Culturally Competent Library Professionals* (Cooke), 94
- institutional accountability, 57–58
- institutional actions, 30
- institutional support, 59
- instruction, adages for, 6–8
- instructors approachability, cultural humility and, 36–38 cultural humility in library education and, 35 experience of teaching cultural humility course, 40–42
 Naghem Swade’s experience of, 194
 power imbalances, removal of, 87–88, 90
- “Integrating Cultural Humility into Librarianship” YouTube video, 60
- “Integrating Cultural Humility into Practice” YouTube video (NNLM), 32
- “Integrating Cultural Humility into Public Services Librarianship” (Hodge), 46
- International Indigenous Librarians’ Forum (IILF), 12–13
- international librarianship background of librarians, 81–82
 conclusion about, 92
 cultural humility in context of, xix–xx mistakes, acknowledging, 88–91
 new ideas, being open to, 86–88
 new/unfamiliar, appreciating, 84–86
 preparing to live in unfamiliar culture, 83 questions for reflection/discussion, 93–94
 resources for, 94
 returning to US, 91–92
 summary of, 93
 three pillars of cultural humility, 82
- internet, 132–133
- interpersonal acceptance, 156
- interpersonal actions, 30
- interpersonal interactions
 approachability, 36–38
 cultural humility approach, benefits of, 42–44
 cultural humility in Information
 Resource Discovery course, 38–42
 cultural humility, learning about, 35
 with patrons at Diné College Libraries, 112–114

- interpersonal stance, 165 interpersonal values, 115–116 Irwin, Jarrod
 information about, 209
 overview of chapter by, xx on revising course on grant-writing process, 95–106
- J
Jackson, L. M., 51
Jeff (servant leader), 162–163
Johnson, M. D., 157–158, 159
Just for You (Mayer), 74–75 justice
 cultural humility and, 180
 humility as dream of, 184, 185 racial justice, 26
- K
Kaleidoscope Program, 181
Kāretu, S. on adages as instruments of instruction, 6 on self-praise, 10 on shared understanding of proverbs, 9
Kāretu, T., 11
Katz, A. S., 103
kawau (cormorant), 11
Kawharu, M., 5
K'é system, 114–115, 120
Keats, Ezra Jack, 76
Kelley, R. E., 159
Kendrick, K. D. on critical cultural humility, 18
 on employment of Black women, 23
 on workplace/cultural humility, 24
Kern, Kathleen, 37
Keyes, Kelsey
 on decentering herself as reader, 68
 on evaluating books for young readers, 63–79 on inertia, 74–75
 information about, 209
 overview of chapter by, xix
Kids Café, 132
Kim, Sunny, xvii
Kinaaldá ceremony, 119
King, Billie Jean, 65
King, M., 5
kinship ties, 29
Kishi, Claudia, 69
Klumpke, Anna Elizabeth, 64–65
“Knowing (un)Knowings: Cultural Humility, the Other(s), and Theories of Change” (Cline & López-McKnight), xxii, 175–187 knowledge transmission, 7 Kohere, R. on construction of proverbs, 9
 on Māori adages, 5
 on whakataukī, 7
Kois, D., 54–55 Kostelecky, S. R.
 concerns about cultural humility, 117, 177
 on context, 54
 on cultural humility, xi, xvi, 41
 cultural humility approach of, 165–166
 cultural humility definition, xv, 155
 on false narratives, 51
 information about, 205
 on leaders, 164–165
 on positionality, 49, 50
 on power imbalances, 112, 160–161, 179
 on power/authority, 159
 kūmara (sweet potato), 10 Kupenga, T. R., 7
- L
language changes to language in grant-writing course, 101–103 for connecting with community, 85–86 power imbalances, removal of, 90
late fees elimination of, 129–130
 filing charges against patrons with overdue items, 126–127 inspiration for eliminating, 128–129 stories about, 125–126
LCC (Library of Congress Classification), 141–142
LC/NACO Name Authority Record Policy for Personal Names, 141, 145

- LCSH (Library of Congress Subject Headings), 141–142
- leadership development of cultural humility in, 155
 servant leadership, 155–161
- “Learn, Act, Connect: Thriving as an International Librarian and Global Citizen” (Houlihan, Meko, & Click), xix–xx, 81–94
- learning
 cultural humility, 13
 Indigenous adages for, 6–9 ongoing, emphasis on, 100
See also library and information education
- learning, commitment to mistakes, acknowledging, 88–90
 new/unfamiliar, appreciating, 84–85
 openness to new ideas, 86–87
 as pillar of cultural humility, 82
 preparing to live in unfamiliar culture, 83
- Leftwich, A. M., 20
- legal action
 filing charges against patrons with overdue items, 126–127
 for overdue library materials, elimination of, 129–130
- Lent, Blair, 72–73
- Leung, S. Y.
 on context, 21
 on experiences of BIPOC, 25–26
 on racism in American society, 24–25
 on reflective practices, 21
- LGBTQ+ community
 Dewey Decimal System’s classification of, 133
 Michael Mungin’s librarian origin story, 50–54
- librarians
 approachability, cultural humility and, 36–38
 cultural humility approach, benefits of, 42–44
 cultural humility, meaning for librarianship, 18–19
 decentering yourself as reader, 66–70
 patrons at Diné College Libraries and, 112–114
 power imbalances in libraries, 26–30
 reflective practice of cultural humility, xviii–xx of Seattle Public Library, 53–54
 Twanna Hodge, work history of, 24–26
 Xan Goodman, work history of, 22–24
See also library staff
- The Librarian’s Guide to Homelessness: An Empathy-Driven Approach to Solving Problems, Preventing Conflict, and Serving Everyone* (Dowd), 136
- librarianship cultural humility concept in, xi
 cultural humility definition, xv cultural humility, meaning for practice, 18–19
 power imbalances in libraries, 28–29
See also international librarianship;
 power imbalances in librarianship
- libraries
 DEI activities of, ix impact of community on cultural humility, xx–xxii mission statements of, 134 origins of cultural humility in, xvii–xviii power imbalances in, 26–30 redlining, impact on, 21
- library access barriers
 changes made at library, 129–130, 132–133
 Dewey Decimal System, challenging, 133
 filing charges against patrons with overdue items, 126–127
 identifying, 133–134
 inspiration for change, 128–129
 introduction to, xxi
 overdue library materials, stories about, 125–126
 proof of residency for adults, 131
 questions for reflection/discussion, 135–136
 replacement costs, elimination of, 131–132

- library access barriers (cont'd)
 resources for, 136
 summary about, 134
 unattended-children policy, 130–131
- library and information education
 approachability, 36–38
 cultural humility approach, benefits of, 42–44
 cultural humility, learning about, 35
 graduate course during COVID-19 pandemic, 38–39
 Liliana's student experience, 39–40
 questions for reflection/discussion, 45
 resources for, 46
 Sarah's instructor experience, 40–42
 summary of, 45
- library and information science (LIS), 182
- library anxiety, 112
- library culture, 21–22
- Library of Congress Classification (LCC), 141–142
- Library of Congress Subject Headings (LCSH), 141–142
- library policies barriers, elimination of, xxi communication about, 143
 as guidelines, 138–139
 LC/NACO Name Authority Record Policy for Personal Names, 141 review of by GMU's Access Services, 146
- library services
 approachability, 36–38
 cultural humility approach, benefits of, 42–44
 cultural humility in Information Resource Discovery course, 38–42
 cultural humility, learning about, 35
 for immigrants/refugees, 199–201
- library staff
 access barriers to library and, 133–134 Access Services and Metadata Services' cultural humility changes, 144–146
 approachability, 36–38
 changes to language in Grants and Proposal Writing on Demand course, 102
 cultural humility approach, benefits of, 42–44 cultural humility implementation by, 148
 cultural humility, learning about, 35
 microaggressions by, 24 project plan, implementation of, 99–100
See also librarians
- library users
See patrons
- lifelong learning, 56
- limitations
 adages about awareness of, 10–13
 of international librarian, 89–90
- LIS (library and information science), 182
- listening cultural humility for sensitivity to, 43 by humble leaders, 158 to Indigenous adages, 7 by international librarians, 83 to patron, 40, 42
- Liu, Helena, 162–163
- López-McKnight, Jorge R.
 on context, 21
 on experiences of BIPOC, 25–26
 information about, 208
 “Knowing (un)Knowings: Cultural Humility, the Other(s), and Theories of Change,” 175–187
 overview of chapter by, xxii
 on racism in American society, 24–25
 on reflective practices, 21
- love
 cultural humility as act of, xxii demands critique, 177
- M
- Macdonald, Maryann, 64–65
- Macharia, Keguro, 177
- Mackenzie, Tricia
 cultural humility/DEI work of, 138
 on GMU's Access Services and Metadata Services, 137–150
 information about, 209
 overview of chapter by, xxi–xxii
- MacLeod, Kirk, 41

- Māori
 adages about humility, 10–12 adages exist across time, 5–6 adages used by, 4–5 meaning in whakatauki, 7 shared understanding of whakatauki, 9
- MāoriLanguage.net, 14
- Marsden, M., 5
- Mason Zines, 140
- Massey University, 14
- Masters, C., 203
- Matsuda, Mari J., 25–26
- Mayer, Mercer, 74–75
- McDermott, Gerald, 72
- McGhee, H., 21
- McLain, K., 23
- McRae, J.
 on construction of proverbs, 9
 Fade 2 Black Popular Culture Index, 54 on knowledge transmission, 7
 on Māori adages, 5, 6, 9
- Mead, H., 6, 7
- Meky, Dina
 commitment to learning, 84
 information about, 210
 on international librarianship, 81–94
 overview of chapter by, xix–xx
 work after return to US, 92
 work history of, 81
- Mensah, E. O.
 on adages for learning about cultural humility, 9 on adages/proverbs, 4, 13 on repeating instructions, 7
- mental practices, xvi
- Metadata Services
See Access Services and Metadata Services, GMU
- Metge, J., 5, 7
- Metres, P., 186
- Micas, Nathalie, 64–65
- microaggressions, 201, 202–203
- Middle East and North Africa (MENA), 81–82, 88
- Milroy, James Te Wharehuia, 11
- Minicomics Collection, 140
- “Mirrors and Windows: Diversity in Children’s Picture Books” (Bronson), 70–71, 79
- mistakes, 88–91, 93
- Mitchell, T. R. on humble leaders, 159
 servant leadership definitions of humility, 157–158
- Mittal, R., 160
- mobile devices, 132–133
- money
 cost of librarianship, 28 socioeconomic factors of power imbalances in libraries, 28–29
- Montoya, Liliana
 experience of Information Resource Discovery course, 39–40 “Getting Past ‘Approachability’: What Cultural Humility Brings to Library and Information Education,” 35–46
 information about, 210
 overview of chapter by, xviii
- Moorfield, J. C., 14
- Moorhouse, Leisa
 “He kete whakatauki: Using Narratives and Values in Māori Proverbs,” 15 on Indigenous adages in promoting cultural humility, 3–15
 information about, 210
 overview of chapter by, xvii–xviii
- Morrison, Deb, 180
- Moten, Fred, 175, 186
- motivation
 servant leadership and, 156–157
 understanding of, 162
- multiculturalism, x–xi
- Mungin, Michael
 information about, 210
 librarian origin story of, 50–54
 overview of chapter by, xix
 “Reflections on Culturally Humble Practice in Bibliography, Scholarship, and Readers’ Advisory,” 49–60
- Murray-García, J.
 on cultural humility, 40, 53

- Murray-García, J. (cont'd)
Cultural Humility: People, Principles and Practices (documentary film), 60 on cultural humility tenets, 55 on multiculturalism, x
- Muslims
 Naghem Swade, personal culture of, 193–194
 Naghem Swade's experience of cultural norms, 198–199
 status quo, shedding, 201–202
- Mutonyi, H., 4
- N
- Naayée'eek'ehgo (Protectionway) Teachings, 115–116, 117
- Name Authority Cooperative Program (NACO), 140–141
- Napson-Williams, T., 23
- narratives
 false narratives, 51
 of LGBTQ+/QTPOC people, 52
 self-reflection on, 202 toxic, exposure to, 195 toxic, perpetuation of, 198
- National Network of Libraries of Medicine (NNLM), 95–106
- Native people
 See Indigenous people
- Navajo culture
 See Diné culture
- "Navajo Educational Goals," 109
- Navajo Nation
 Diné College of, 109–110
 Rhiannon Sorrell's return to, 110–111
- Network of the National Library of Medicine (NNLM), 32, 105
- New York University (NYU) Abu Dhabi, 81
- Newbery, John, 71
- Newbery Medal, 71
- newness appreciation of, 84–86
 new ideas, openness to, 86–88, 93
- Ngata, Apirana, 12
- Nihokáá' Dine'é (surface people), 114
- Njwe, Eyovi, 4, 6
- NNLM (National Network of Libraries of Medicine), 95–106
- NNLM (Network of the National Library of Medicine), 32, 105
- noblesse oblige, 160, 164
- nonclosure, xi–xii
- norms
 personal culture and, 196–199
 status quo, shedding, 199–202
- Northeastern University, 81
- nostalgia
 evaluation of children's books and, 73–74, 76 falling back on, 70
 inertia and, 74, 75
 reliance on, 76–77
- O
- O'Connell, T. S., 20
- Office of Diné Culture, Language, & Community Service, 115–116
- Okun, T., 21, 27
- Oliphant, T., 44
- openness cultural humility requires, 39–40 Diné culture on, 115, 119 to learning, 103 to new ideas, 86–88, 96 to patrons, 42, 43
 servant leadership and, 165
- origins
 cultural humility in library/information education, 35–46 Indigenous adages in promoting cultural humility, 3–15 overview of section on, xvi–xviii
 power imbalances in librarianship, 17–32
- Ossom-Williamson, P., 28
- other otherness, cultural humility and, 183 perspectives, recognition of, xvi practicing cultural humility, 179 third-culture kids as, 153, 154
- overdue library materials elimination of late fees, 129–130

filing charges against patrons with overdue items, 126–127
 replacement costs, elimination of, 131–132
 stories about, 125–126
 Owens, B. P., 157–158, 159
 Oxenbury, Helen, 66–67

P

paradox, xi Parris, D. L., 158 partial expertise, 43–44 partners changes to language in Grants and Proposal Writing on Demand
 course, 102
 cultural humility and, xv, 105
 fostering positive relationships, 103–104 project-planning by, 98–99
 See also collaborators patrons approachability of library staff and, 36–38
 cultural humility approach, benefits of, 42–44
 cultural humility changes for, 138–143
 cultural humility in information services course, 44 culturally humble approach to, 39–40
 at Diné College Libraries, 112–114
 Diné values for cultural humility
 practices, 118–120
 late fees and, 125–130
 Patterson, J., 5, 7
 Patterson, K. A., 157
 Peachey, J. W., 158
 pecha kucha talk, 89–90
 Pekerti, A. A., 160
 Pemberton, Steve, 128 performance, 158–159
 personal culture
 Daniyom “Dani” Bekele’s experience of
 cultural norms, 197–198
 Naghem Swade’s experience of cultural norms, 198–199
 questions about, 195–196
 self-reflection on, 202

status quo, shedding, 199–202 stories for identification of, 191–195 personal responsibility, 162 perspective-taking, 52
 Philip, John, 7
 Phillips, L. S., 94 planning
 project plan, implementation of, 99–100 project planning, grant-writing course
 on, 98–99
 “Poetry as Untelling: A Conversation with
 M. NourbeSe Philip” (Metres), 186 Poler, Omar, xvii police, 139–140
 policies, 116–118
 See also library policies
 Polkinghorne, Sarah “Getting Past ‘Approachability’: What Cultural Humility Brings to Library
 and Information Education,” 35–46
 information about, 210–211
 as instructor for Information Resource Discovery course, 40–42
 overview of chapter by, xviii
 Pollock, D. C., 153
 Ponton, M., 157
 positional power, 159, 160
 positionality acknowledgement of/reflection on, 59 discussion of, 49–50 of Michael Mungin, 50–54
 “positionality statement” in QTPOC Film Canon, 57
 Potapchuk, M., xi–xii power
 cultural humility and, xv dynamics, cultural humility and, 38, 42 Indigenous adages about, 12
 servant leadership and, 159–160
 power imbalances Access Services, cultural humility changes, 139–140
 adages for fixing, 8–9 addressing in cultural humility, xi in children’s literature, disrupting, 78 in children’s literature, recognizing/mitigating, 70–77

- power imbalances (cont'd)
- countering, 29
 - cultural humility approach and, 179
 - cultural humility approach to
 - evaluating books, 77
 - cultural identity and, 160–161
 - engaging in cultural humility and, 19
 - international librarians and, 90
 - in librarianship, redressing, xviii
 - manifestation of in library services, 59
 - new ideas, openness to, 87–88
 - new/unfamiliar, appreciating, 85
 - patrons at Diné College Libraries and, 112
 - QTPOC Film Canon's redress of, 56–57
 - removal of, 82
 - servant leadership and, 159–160, 162–163, 164
- power imbalances in librarianship
- actions for redressing, 30
 - autoethnography, 17–18
 - cultural humility, meaning for
 - librarianship practice, 18–19
 - engaging in cultural humility, 19–20
 - factors of, 28–29
 - kinship ties factors, 29
 - library culture's, impact of geography
 - on, 21–22
 - questions for reflection/discussion, 31–32
 - rank/status factors, 29
 - reflective practices, 20–21
 - resources for, 32
 - socioeconomic factors, 28–29
 - summary of, 30–31
 - Twanna's work history, 24–26
 - Xan's work history, 22–24
- privacy, 140–141
- privilege
- of international librarian, 89–90
 - library access barriers and, 129, 134
 - noblesse oblige, 160
- project evaluation, 100–101
- Project Implicit, 32
- project plan
- changing, 101
 - Grants and Proposal Writing On
 - Demand course, changes to, 98–99
 - proof of residency, 129, 131
 - proofreading, 102
 - Protectionway Teachings, 115–116, 117
 - proverbs, 4
 - See also* adages, Indigenous
 - Public Library Association Conference, 2018, 128–129
 - publishers
 - power imbalances in children's
 - literature, 71, 73
 - zines and, 140
 - Puente, Mark A., ix–xii
- Q
- QTPOC (queer and trans people of color)
- Michael Mungin's librarian origin story, 50–54
 - QTPOC Film Canon and, 54–55, 56, 58
- QTPOC Film Canon
- background of, 54–55
 - connections to cultural humility, 55–58
 - Michael Mungin on, xix
- queer people
- homophobia, confrontation with, 50–51
 - queer erasure in children's books, 64–65
- questions, about culture, 195–196
- questions for reflection/discussion
- for children's literature, evaluation of, 78–79
 - for cultural humility in library
 - departments, 149–150
 - cultural humility in library/information
 - education, 45
 - for cultural humility reflective practice, 59–60
 - for cultural humility, visions of, 186
 - for cultural humility/servant
 - leadership, 167–168
 - for grant-writing process course, 105
 - for Indigenous adages, 14
 - for international librarianship, 93–94
 - for library access barriers, 135–136
 - power imbalances in librarianship, 31–32

R

race

- in children's literature, 66–67
- servant leadership and, 162–163
- “Race and Ethnicity in Classification Systems: Teaching Knowledge Organization from a Social Justice Perspective” (Adler & Harper), 150 racism

- Dewey Decimal System and, 133
- racial change, theories of, 181–182
- racial/social injustices facing BIPOC communities, 189–190
- servant leadership and, 164
- third-culture kid and, 153
- training for systemic change, ix–x
- Twanna Hodge's experience of, 24–25
- worldwide racial awakening, ix

Randolph Caldecott Medal, 71–72

Ranganathan, S. R., 66 rank, 29

reader, 66–70

Reading Rockets, 66

Reale, M., 20

recognition, 56–57

redlining policies, 21

“Redressing Power Imbalances in Librarianship Using Cultural Humility: A Perspective from Two Black Librarians” (Goodman & Hodge), xviii, 17–32

Reeves, Roger, 177

Reference and Information Services: An Introduction (Bopp & Smith 2011; Wong & Saunders 2020), 37

Reference and User Services Association (RUSA) Guidelines

- on approachability, 36–38

- in Information Resource Discovery course, 41

reference services, 36–38

Reference Services Review, xi

reflection

- See questions for reflection/discussion; self-reflection

“Reflections on Culturally Humble Practice in Bibliography, Scholarship, and Readers' Advisory” (Mungin), xix, 49–60

reflective practice

- children's literature, cultural humility

- for evaluating, 63–79

- for cultural humility, xviii–xx, 50

- culturally humble practice in bibliography, scholarship, RA, 49–60

- for engaging in cultural humility, 19–21

- grant-writing process course, cultural humility in, 95–106

- international librarianship, 81–94

- of Twanna Hodge, 20–21

refugees

- assimilation into US society, 196

- library services for, 199–201

relationships

- authentic/long-lasting, 190

- cultural humility recognizes complexity of, 185

- humility as theory of change, 184

- power/authority of servant leadership, 159–160

- of servant leadership, 156

replacement costs

- elimination of, 131–132

- filing charges against patrons with overdue items, 126–127

- for overdue library materials, 125

representation

- in children's books, importance of, 70–73

- cultural humility and, 51

- opportunities with, 52

reputation, 9

residency, proof of, 129, 131

“Resolution on Monetary Library Fines as a Form of Social Inequity” (ALA), 146

“Resonances: A Conversation on Formless Formation” (Harney, Stefano, Ruiz, & Vourloumis), 186 resource description, 140, 147

resources

- for children's literature evaluation, 79

- for cultural humility in library services, 150

- resources (cont'd)
- for cultural humility library/ information education, 46
 - for cultural humility reflective practice, 59–60
 - for cultural humility, visions of, 186–187
 - for grant-writing process course, 106
 - for Indigenous adages, 14–15
 - for international librarianship, 94
 - for library access barriers, 136
 - for power imbalances in librarianship, 32
 - for servant leadership, 168
- responsibility, personal, 162
- Ride, Sally, 65
- Riggs, Marlon, 52
- Riley-Reid, Trevar, 58
- Rios, M., 26
- riots, 22
- Rise: A Feminist Book Project for Ages 0–18, 63, 79
- Robinson, D., 203
- Roessel, Ruth, 120
- Rogers, A., 50
- Rosa's Animals: The Story of Rosa Bonheur and Her Painting Menagerie* (Macdonald), 64–65
- Rost, Joseph, 155, 159
- Rowling, J. K., 73–74
- Roy, Loriene
 - on Indigenous adages, 3–15
 - information about, 211
 - International Indigenous Librarians' Forum, 12–13
 - overview of chapter by, xvii–xviii
- Royal, T. A., 5
- Ruiz, Sandra, 186
- RUSA Guidelines
 - See* Reference and User Services Association (RUSA) Guidelines
- Ryan, B., 160
- S
- Sa'ah Naagháí Bik'eh Hózhóón philosophy, 116–117
- Sametinget, Samediggi, 13
- Sámi
 - adage on humility, 9
 - The One Who* art piece, 13
 - proverbs of, 8
- Sandage, S. J., 157
- Sandberg, Jane, 141, 150
- Saunders, L., 37
- sayings
 - See* adages, Indigenous
- Scholarly Kitchen, 22
- Schon, D. A., 19, 20
- school
 - Daniyom “Dani” Bekele’s experience of, 192–193
 - Michael Mungin’s experience of, 50
 - Naghem Swade’s experience of, 194
 - student library card, 131
- Schwarz, M. T., 114
- Sealey-Ruiz, Y., 18
- Seattle Public Library (SPL), 52, 53
- self-awareness, 39–40
- self-competency, 191–195
- self-focused responses, 63
- self-humility, 191–195
- self-identity, 110–111
- self-initiative, 118, 119
- self-knowledge, 162
- self-praise, 12
- self-promotion, 157
- self-reflection
 - about assumptions, xxii–xxiii
 - autoethnography as tool for, 17
 - as continuous process, 194–195
 - for cultural humility, xi, xvi
 - cultural humility promotes, 42–43
 - importance of, 191
 - for openness to new ideas, 86
 - on personal culture, 202
 - QTPOC Film Canon’s connections to cultural humility, 56
- Sendjaya, S., 160
- servant leadership
 - characteristics of, 156
 - concept of, 155
 - connection with cultural humility, xxii
 - cultural identity, 160–161

- humility, 157–158
 humility/performance, 158–159 implementation difficulty, 156–157 power/authority, 159–160 role of, 156
- service
 cultural humility and, 43
 TCKs desire to help others, 154
See also library services
- servitude, 162, 163
- sex work, 68
- sexual orientation, 50–51
- Sharkie, R., 158
- Shepard, Matthew, 51
- “show, don’t tell” guidelines, 140
- Siegert, R. J., 100
- SJSU School of Information, 60
- Slate’s Black Film Canon, 54–55
- “Small Changes Make an Impact: How Access and Metadata Services Teams Address Cultural Humility” (Bopp, Mackenzie, & Edwards), xxi–xxii, 137–150
- smiling, 37
- Smith, D., 177
- Smith, L. C., 37
- Smith-Cruz, S., 180, 187
- The Snowy Day* (Keats), 76
- social cues, 86
- social determinants of health, 97, 105
 “Social Determinants of Health” (US Department of Health and Human Services), 105
- social hierarchies, 91
- societal norms, 196–199
- socioeconomic status, x, 28–29
- Sorrell, Rhiannon on Diné culture in cultural humility practices, 109–122
 information about, 211
 overview of chapter by, xx–xxi return to Navajo Nation, 110–111
- Spanyol, Jessica, 67
- Spears, Larry, 155–156, 160
- SPL (Seattle Public Library), 52, 53
- Spotify playlist, 187
- St. Thomas, US Virgin Islands, 25
- staff
See library staff
- standards-based approach to teaching, 111
- status, 29
- status quo, 196, 199–202
- stereotypes about patrons, 42–43
 cultural humility and, 40
 false narratives, 51
- stewardship, 156
- stories
 about cultural humility, xvii
 Daniyom “Dani” Bekele’s experience of cultural norms, 197–198
 Daniyom “Dani” Bekele’s personal culture, 191–193
 Michael Mungin’s librarian origin story, 50–54
 Naghem Swade’s experience of cultural norms, 198–199
 Naghem Swade’s personal culture, 193–194 for personal culture identification, 191 of shedding status quo, 199–202 Stories of Traditional Navajo Life and Culture (Roessel), 109
- student library card, 130–131
- students access services for users at GMU, 138–140 approachability/cultural humility, xviii, 36–38 cultural humility course, experience of, 39–40 cultural humility in course, response to, 41–42, 44
 cultural humility, learning about, 35
 at Diné College Libraries, 112–114
 of George Mason University, 137–138
 library late fees and, 125–126
 positionality discussion with, 49–50
 power imbalances, removal of, 87–88, 90
 staff training in cultural humility, 144
- Sue, D. W., 27
- supervisors
 kinship ties factors and, 29

- supervisors (cont'd) power imbalances in libraries and, 26–27
- Swade, Naghem
 on cultural humility, 189–203
 information about, 211–212
 overview of chapter by, xxii–xxiii
 on personal culture, 193–194
 on shedding status quo, 201–202
- Swanson, J., 58
- system actions, 30
- T
- T'áá hó ájít'éego value, 117, 118
- Taking Your MLIS Abroad: Getting and Succeeding in an International Library Job* (Phillips & Holvoet), 94
- Tan, E. C., 154
- Tanaka, A., 58
- Tangney, J. P. dimensions of humility, 82 on humility, 57
 on positionality, 49
 on working with patrons, 119
- Tanner, Henry Ossawa, 64
- Task Force for Ethical and Anti-oppressive Metadata (TEAM), 147
- Taylor, R. J., 29
- Taylor, W. J., 100
- TCK
 See third-culture kid
- Te aka Māori-English, English-Māori Dictionary and Index*, 14
- “Te Ao Hurihuri” adage, 5–6
- Te Ao-Māori News, 11
- teachability, 162
- teachers
 See instructors
- TEAM (Task Force for Ethical and Anti-oppressive Metadata), 147
- team actions, 30
- Ten Little Fingers and Ten Little Toes* (Fox & Oxenbury), 66–67
- terrorist, 198
- Tervalon, M.
 on cultural humility, 40, 53, 55
- Cultural Humility: People, Principles and Practices* (documentary film), 60
- on multiculturalism, x
- theory of change, 181–184
- third-culture kid (TCK) ideas about leadership, 164
 Mark Emmons on being, xxii, 153–155 unfamiliar culture, openness to, 166
- Thompson, A. D., 157
- Tikki Tikki Tembo* (Lent), 72
- time, 5–6, 13
- “Time Is a Ship That Never Casts Anchor”: Indigenous Adages in Promoting Cultural Humility” (Roy & Moorhouse), xvii–xviii, 3–15
- Towards a QTPOC Film Canon, 54–58
- Townsend, L. concerns about cultural humility, 117, 177
 on context, 54
 on cultural humility, xi, 41
 cultural humility approach of, 165–166
 cultural humility definition, xv, 155
 on cultural humility practices, xvi
 on false narratives, 51
 information about, 205–206
 on leaders, 164–165
 on positionality, 49, 50
 on power imbalances, 112, 160–161, 179
 on power/authority, 159
- tradition
 reliance on, 70, 76–77
 selection of children’s books and, 75–76
- training
 by Cultural Inclusivity Services, 190, 202
 staff training in cultural humility, 144
- transgender people, 65
 See also QTPOC (queer and trans people of color)
- transphobia, 73, 74
- travel, 28–29
- tribal college
 See Diné College
- Tribal College Library
 See Diné College Libraries
- trust in employees, 156 humility engenders, 158–159 in librarian, 49 for removal of power imbalances, 87

Tuck, Eve, 177, 181

U

unattended-children policy, 130–131 unfamiliar, appreciation of, 84–85, 93 unfamiliar culture, 82, 83 unfamiliar norms, 165 United States
 cultural norms in, 196–199 Daniyom “Dani” Bekele on move back to, 191–193
 international librarian’s return to, 91–92
 third-culture kid’s experience of, 153–154
 University of Ottawa’s School of Information Studies, 38–42
 University of Utah, 18–19, 24
 University of Washington library system, 58 unknowing, 183
 unlearning cultural humility as, 202 intentional, 199
 question about, 121
 Unlearning & Divesting from the White Colonial Mind (website), 32 unselving challenge of, 121
 question about, 121
 of Rhiannon Sorrell, 110–111
 US Department of Agriculture, 97 US Department of Health and Human Services, 97, 105
 US Department of Justice, Office of Community Oriented Policing
 Services, 150
U.S. News & World Report, 137
 US Virgin Islands, 25
 Useem, R. H., 153, 154
 users
 See patrons
 Utah Food Bank, 132

V

Valdes, Carrie
 information about, 212
 on library access barriers, elimination of, 125–136 overview of chapter by, xxi values
 cultural humility and, 183
 of Diné College, 116–118
 Diné values for cultural humility
 practices, 118–120
 humility in Diné interpersonal values, 115–116
 servant leadership, alignment with, 156 of TCKs, assumptions about, 153–154
 van Dierendonck, Dirk characteristics of servant leadership, 167 humility in servant leadership, 157 model of servant leadership, 156 outcomes of servant leadership, 158 visibility, 37–38
 “Visibility/Approachability” guideline, 36 Vourloumis, Hypatia, 186 vulnerable communities, 103

W

Wacek, Dawn, 136
 Wang, K. T., 154
 Washington Research Librarian
 Consortium (WRLC), 142, 147–148
 Watanabe, Josie, xvii
 Waters, A. J., 8
 Wayne State University, 18
We Are Water Protectors (Lindstrom & Goade), 75–76
 WebJunction, 150 whakapapa (genealogical line), 6 whakataukī (proverbs) about humility, 10–12 of Māori world, 5 meaning in, 7 shared understanding of, 9 time and, 6
 as tools of education, 6 “Whakataukī: Māori Proverbs” (Massey University), 14

- Wheeler, Laura, 64
- White, K. R. J., 100
- white people
 children's literature awards and, 71–73
 power imbalances in libraries, 26
 workplace, cultural humility and, 24
- white privilege, x
- white supremacy
 in conversation about DEI, x impact in publishing, 76 impact of geography on Xan Goodman, 21
 power imbalances in libraries, 26
 representation in children's books, 71
- “White Supremacy Culture Characteristics” (White Supremacy Culture), 32
- whiteness
 in critical race theory, 17–18
 power imbalances in libraries, 27–28
 Twanna Hodge's experience of, 25
- Wiens, T. W., 157
- Wiley, C. W., 92
- Willocks, H. W., 25
- Winston, B. E., 160
- women accuracy/completeness of children's books, 65 book awards for, 71 experience of Black women working in libraries, xviii, 23 ideas about Muslim women, 198, 201 in Middle East, 91
- Women in Art: 50 Fearless Creatives Who Inspired the World* (Igotofsky), 65
- Wong, M. A., 37
- Wong, Shirley Temple, 69
- Woodard, Beth, 37
- workers
 See library staff
- workplace safety, 44
 in Xan Goodman's work history, 22–24
- WorldCat, 55
- WRLC (Washington Research Librarian Consortium), 142, 147–148
- X
- X̱wi7̱wa Library at the University of British Columbia, 142
- Y
- Yang, J., 158
- Yang, K. Wayne, 177, 181
- Yeager, K. A., 203
- young readers
 See children's literature, cultural humility approach to evaluating
- Yup'ik people adage about generosity, 10 adage about reputation, 9 adages of, 3
 on repeating instructions, 7 tradition of storing words, 13 yuuluaqautekat, 3
- Z
- Zhang, W., 158
- zines, 140