ABOUT THE AWARD

The Andrew Carnegie Medal for Excellence in Fiction recognizes the best fiction books for adult readers in the U.S. The Medals are awarded by the American Library Association and reflect the expert judgment and insight of library professionals who work closely with adult readers.

The Medals are made possible, in part, by a grant from Carnegie Corporation of New York in recognition of Andrew Carnegie's deep belief in the power of books and learning to change the world, and are co-sponsored by ALA's Booklist and the Reference and User Services Association (RUSA).
